Proven Mobile Deployment Expertise

Today's mobile asset management and service management personnel need improved ways to access information, regardless of whether they're in the office or in the plant. Maximo Mobile offers an effective way to increase personnel productivity, optimize resources and establish business process efficiencies. However, in order to enable Maximo Mobile to achieve expected results, a number of factors must be taken under consideration in order to ensure a successful deployment.

Createch Asset Management Solutions (AMS) Services provides professional services to help organizations evaluate wired and wireless network connections requirements, install, train and configure Maximo Mobile and other mobile asset management applications.

With an extensive history in mobile deployment projects including inventory control, work management, inspections and calibration across multiple industries, Createch AMS facilitates a phased approach to mobile technology implementation so that there is no room for error, leading to a faster return on investment.

Createch AMS Services can help create the specialized knowledge you need to support your business, and save you time and resources in the process. Our highly experienced team stands ready to keep your project on-track with the specialized services you require:

- Createch AMS deployment services starts with process analysis to validate the mobility objectives with actual and proposed processes; site analysis to verify that a company's proposed physical environment can effectively accommodate the mobile technology; and site installation to place and test designated mobile devices and transmitters for optimal performance.
- The configurability of Maximo Mobile offers an extremely flexible environment to customize a solution that meets exact requirements. However, configuring Maximo Mobile requires extensive technical and J2EE development knowledge. Createch AMS offers a single source to help you configure Maximo Mobile to meet your specific requirements with reduced risk and faster implementation timeframes.
- You will benefit from the extensive application and mobile business process knowledge of the Createch team. Training programs can be conducted onsite or at our offices. Createch will work with you to make sure they have the necessary skill set to effectively and successfully work with Maximo Mobile.
- We can help you prepare infrastructure elements and identify mobile devices for use with different functional areas. As a reseller of popular hardware devices we can source and commission all the components required. And finally we establish connectivity with every device to ensure they're operating at peak performance levels.

Our mobile experience lets you rest assured, knowing we have the knowledge to cope with any unforeseen challenges. Our proven mobile deployment approach is designed to help you increase productivity, gain competitiveness, and reduce costs while minimizing risk.
